IS YOUR NAME ON THE VOTERS LIST?

—o—

The time is almost at hand when Mr T. M. Weare will be preparing the new voters list to be used in the next municipal election.

Each year, about polling day, people are disappointed when they find out that their name is not among the list entitled to cast a ballot.

In almost every instance the fault is entirely that of the anxious voter.

The Secretary-Treasurer will prepare on or before November 15th, a voters list, and those entitled under the New Town Act shall be:

(a) the name of every purchaser, who is of the full age of twenty-one years, entitled to the possession of land assessed for $50 or upwards;

(b) the name of every owner of land assessed for $50 or upwards of which there is no such purchaser, if such owner is of the full age of twenty-one years;

(c) the name of every conditional owner of land assessed for $50 or upwards and who is of the full age of twenty-one years;

(d) the name of every person liable to a business tax in respect of a business assessed for $50 or upwards and who is of the full age of twenty-one years and who is not entered upon the list under paragraphs (a), (b) or (c).

(e) the name of every person liable to a personal property tax in respect to personal property assessed for $50 or upwards and who is the full age of twenty-one years, and who is not entered upon the list under paragraphs (a), (b), (c) or (d);

(f) a brief description of the land which is assessed, or a statement of the business assessed;

(g) the word "purchaser", "owner" or "conditional owner" as the case may be;

(h) the word "resident" or "non-resident" as the case may be, and shall enter in alphabetical order at the end of the previous entries, the names of the wife, husband, father and mother and of each son and daughter of each person whose name is previously entered—(i) if such wife, husband, father, mother, son or daughter is resident with the said person or assists him in the business in respect of which he is taxable, and (ii) if he or she is of the full age of twenty-one years; (iii) if his or her name does not already appear on the roll; (iv) if he or she duly makes application during the months of September and October in accordance with the notice provided; and

(i) the name of every tenant in a separate alphabetical list who has rented an assessed parcel for a period of twelve months immediately preceding the last day of August of that year, and who has duly made application in accordance with the notice hereinafter provided for.

The important part on the part of the voter is that they MUST make application.

DELIVER MAIL FROM AIRPLANE TO STEAMER

—o—

WASHINGTON—An attempt to deliver United States mail by airplane to the steamship Leviathan when it reaches a point 500 miles off the American coast has been decided upon at a conference of representatives of the Postoffice Department, the Navy Department and the United States Shipping Board.

Lieut. Clarence M. Schildhauer, navy aviator, will attempt the feat, flying one of the largest navy seaplanes PN-10 type, taking off from the Squatum (Miss.) naval air station. The object of the flight, to be undertaken only if the weather is favorable, is to speed up transoceanic mail service.

CROP REPORT

EIGHTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta.

EDMONTON—The whole province gives promise of an excellent crop with high average yields of all kinds of grain. Late seeding, with abundant moisture in the early part of the season, is responsible for the somewhat late ripening of the general crop. The warm sunshine we have had this last week is ripening the crops with great rapidity. The earlier varieties of wheat, particularly that sown on lighter land, are now mature, and a considerable amount of cutting of this grain has already been done. Cutting will not be general, however, until the first week in September.

A careful check-up of the frost situation shows that there has been no frost damage except in the extreme northeastern sections of the province. In some isolated districts in this area frost struck rather heavily. Except in the above area the province is entirely free from frost damage. Hail damage has been more prevalent than usual with the result that damage from this source will be slightly greater than average. Rust has made an appearance in a few sections. The damage from this source, however, is negligible.

Notwithstanding the losses caused by the above mentioned agencies, if no further serious losses occur, we are convinced that the province will have the largest total yield of wheat in its history. A particularly significant feature this year is to be found in the fact that there is a uniformly good crop in every section of the province.

Large numbers of harvesters are now arriving, and it is not anticipated that any shortage of help will occur.

Strathmore District School Fair

—o—

Thursday, September 15, is the date for Strathmore School District Fair, in which the following schools are expected to be competitors: Berta Vale, Cairnhill, Crowfoot, Cheadle, Elwood, Harwood, Hervey, Orange Valley and Strathmore.

A splendid prize list has been prepared, and every assistance should be given to President Schulte, Principal Crowther and the other members of the teaching staffs who have given so unsparingly of their time to make the Strathmore School Fair one of the outstanding ones of the Province.

The building up of a keen healthy rivalry between the schools of the district, can have but one result, and that of producing keen and ambitious citizens. The boys and girls of today will be in control of all our affairs within a very limited period of time.

Any assistance that any of the citizens may be able to give will no doubt be appreciated by the executive of the Fair. Remember the date, September 15th.

OBJECTS TO LARGE CLASSES IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

—o—

In his presidential address to an educational institute at Wellington, New Zealand, President Blake is reported to have "dealt trenchantly" with the waste of time due to massing the pupils in large classes in schools, both elementary and secondary. His stated opinion is that, instead of "proving a real saving in money, it is a most costly economy," and he proceeds to give his reasons for this view:—

"There is no exaggeration in the statement that throughout the ordinary class lesson, two-thirds of the children are lost as well be absent, for when the upper third are either manfully floundering or have given up in despair, while if the lower third sets the pace, the others are either impatiently but unprofitably giving head or unobtrusively and surreptitiously attending to something else, and in any case wasting time and forming bad habits."

Mr. Blake makes the further contention, that "the greatest waste" of time and ability is among the brightest children, "which", he says, "may account for the number of those who do not fulfil the promise of their youth"; and he proceeds to claim "that, with the smaller classes, and with methods of individual instruction, the time spent by the children might be reduced by an average of one year per pupil, one year per pupil.

The educational system in New Zealand is very much akin to the system that has lasted in the Canadian provinces from 1874 till now, as the result of the institution of the high school entrance examinations in Ontario in that year, which still dominate the teaching and organization in the public schools of the Canadian provinces. Improvements are constantly being made in the subjects assigned and in the calibre of the teachers, but the financial cost of the public and high school teaching, though it has been hard on the more mature teachers, has been the main obstacle in the way of more individual teaching.

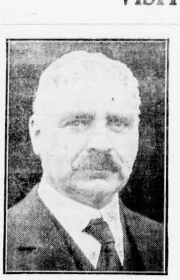
CONGRESS DELEGATES VISIT STRATHMORE



B.C.'s NEW PREMIER
Hon. J. D. MacLean, Minister of Finance and Education in the British Columbia Legislature, and for some time Acting Premier, has been sworn in as Prime Minister of that province.

—o—

On Friday afternoon, the Poultry Congress Delegates arrived in Strathmore by special train, and were entertained at the Canadian Pacific Supply Farm.

Mr. Geo. H. Jones had had a nice lunch prepared, which was heartily enjoyed by the 150 delegates.

Among the delegates from Calgary were P. J. Timms, S. P. Barth, well-known poultry specialists.

Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, accompanied the delegates.

The Congress met in Ottawa, and representatives were in attendance from thirteen different countries. After the Congress the present trip was arranged jointly by the Department of Agriculture and the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

The delegates were quite unanimous in expressing their appreciation of the hospitality that had been extended to them throughout Canada, and that words would fail them in telling their friends when they returned to their homes. To most of the delegates the development, particularly of the West, was most impressive, and they are bound to carry back messages that can only bring good results in the matter of immigration of the right type to Canada.

The kindness of Mr. G. H. Jones was very fully appreciated by all the delegates.

Grain Market

—o—

CHICAGO—Get ready for another quick "run" in grain prices.

It's a pitch of a penny whether the price from this level will advance or decline; more drastic than a 5c movement in wheat but corn can "make or break" here for from ten to fifteen cents per bushel.

It's all up to the Province on this corn crop. Everywhere the crop is late and mostly spotted, ranging from very good to complete failure. A frost before Sept. 15 will spell disaster, and, if it comes corn will be the backbone of the grain market for several months to come.

Big interests buy corn on all breaks and some smart scalpers are "getting by" with short sales and bulges. Something is bound to happen. And soon. Some day corn will be either fearfully overbought or tremendously oversold and then the losers will have a terrible time squaring up.

Bad weather before the maturity of the corn crop would afford the basis of one of the soundest, all around bull scrimps in grain that was ever known.

Wheat is a mysterious jade. Bearish news has only temporary effect. It is reported that on all bearish news out of Canada that foreigners pick up the futures in Chicago. On the other hand much recent selling at Winnipeg is being done by Chicago operators. That makes the market more mystifying than ever.

The Canadian wheat pool, however, holds the whip hand in the Province. Every trader who has backed the Pool has been soundly thrashed. The market looks bullish on all grains at these levels and the safest procedure is to buy after all price recessions. $1.75 wheat and $1.30 corn are probabilities.

THE BIG RACE

—o—

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 31, (5 p.m.)—In the big swimming marathon, which was started this morning at 8.30, when Premier Ferguson fired one shot, and one hundred and eighty swimmers made the plunge.

George Young was in the rear at the end of the first mile, and Ernest Vierkoetter, the big German, in the lead.

George Young had made a wrong turn in going through the breakwater opening and Vierkuetter followed him, and they both lost time in getting on the right trail.

Young was seized with cramps and dropped out at five miles.

Vierkuetter has held the lead, and, at 5 p.m., looks like the probable winner, the Frenchman was second, and Ethel Hertle, of New York, was third.

Mr. P. L. Naismith Has Retired

—o—

The retirement of Mr. P. L. Naismith, Mgr. Dept of Natural Resources Canadian Pacific Railway Co., which has been announced from Montreal and through the Calgary papers, has a local interest because he has had the final say in all matters pertaining to the Irrigation Block of the Company which comprised about 3,000,000 acres of land, and within which the Western and Eastern Irrigation systems were built.

While Mr. J. S. Dennis was the most prominent person connected with the promotion of these works, their development and settlement since 1912 has been in the hands of Mr. Naismith, as chief executive officer for the Dept. of Natural Resources.

Strathmore is intimately connected with the early history of the irrigation development referred to, and was the headquarters of the construction work under Mr. A. S. Dawson, Chief Engineer, and was selected for the operating headquarters when the operating staff was organized in 1911. Mr Naismith, as well as the other high officials have made Strathmore the center for their inspection trips, and many notables from all over the world have been entertained at Strathmore by the local company officials.

The responsibilities of Mr. Naismith's position are very heavy, and it is most reasonable that he should wish to take more time for recreation, and for his many other interests. His friends wish him long years in which to enjoy this greater freedom.

"MEN'S BETTER WEAR"

Pounds Fall Off as One Puts It On

It's almost enough to shake one's faith in diet and exercise to see the immediately slenderizing effect of a cleverly designed gown. This new frock follows the smart lines of the season with its straight one-piece back and with its surplice closing in front, bordered by a long turned-back collar. The skirt is softly gathered and attached across the front beneath a narrow belt that ends with a buckle at the point where an applied cascade drapery gracefully continues the line of the surplice closing. Notice how the sleeve takes an interesting trimming of the georgette or lace which fashions the vestee. (Copyright, 1927, by Butterick)

THAT WORD "AMERICAN"

—o—

Toronto Globe: A reader complains against the use of "American" as applied to people and institutions of the United States. The appropriation of the word by our neighbors may be technically inaccurate, but it has been used by people of Great Britain for a century and a half as applied to the citizens of the Republic, and it cannot now easily be changed. It is much more to the point that Canadians stick to their own name, exalt it, be proud of it, and make it mean something to other nations.

THE GAME OF GOLF

—o—

"Tony" Gregan says he cannot understand what is so attractive about the game of golf. He asked Percy Pardel what he thought was the attraction; Percy replied that golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a rich man to enjoy it.

Golf is what letter-carrying, ditch-digging, and carpet-beating would be if these three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by goofy looking gentlemen who require a different implement for every mood.

Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decide to take it up, and the toughest looking after you have been at it ten or twelve years.

It is probably the only game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover that it was too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with little white balls and as many clubs as the player can afford. These balls cost from 75c to $2.50, and it is possible to support a family of ten people (all adults) for five months on the money represented by the balls lost and picked up by Scotchmen in a single afternoon.

A golf course has 18 holes, 17 of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a cup in the center of a "Green". A "Green" is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.98 a blade and usually located near a slough.

The idea is to get the golf ball from a given point into each of the 18 cups in the fewest strokes and the greatest number of words.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled entirely by a lot of curious looking implements especially designed to provoke the owner.

Each implement has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what that purpose is. They are exceptions.

After each hole has been completed, the golfer counts his strokes. Then he subtracts 6 and says, "Made that in 5." That's one above par. After the final, or 18th hole, the golfer adds up his score and stops when he has reached 87. He then has a swim, some refreshments from his locker, sings "Sweet Adeline" with six or eight other liars, and calls it the end of a perfect day.

SPORT NOTES

JACK JOHNSON CONFESSES PART IN FRAMEUP

—o—

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Frequent reference has been made to Jack Johnson taking a "dive" to Jess Willard in their championship bout at Havana, Cuba. Johnson and his backers consistently denied it, but now one of the principals has confessed to it in a book he has written on his career and the author is none other than Jack Johnson himself.

This excerpt from the book tells the story in Jack's own words, or at least in the words he put in his own mouth, as follows:

"I did not tell Mrs Johnson that I was going to lose the fight until a few moments before I entered the ring. ——(name deleted) had paid me my fight percentage before I left home. No one knew that the money was there and I employed four policemen to guard the house, though they did not know that it was because of the money, and with the understanding that they merely were to watch the premises.

"I instructed Mrs. Johnson to sit at the ringside and watch the fight; that there was more money due me, and until this money was paid to me I would not let the fight take the course agreed upon. Delay in paying the money was due to the incomplete count of gate receipts which was under way when the fight started. Mrs. Johnson was to signal me when she had received the additional money, and I was to signal her, so that she might leave the ringside.

"The fight was originally intended to end in the tenth round, but when that round arrived the money had not been paid. It was nearing the 26th round when the money was turned over to Mrs. Johnson. I had specified that it should be in $500 bills in order that the package should be small and the amount quickly counted. After examining it she gave me the signal that everything was O. K. by a prearranged sign and she departed.

"In the 26th round I let the fight end as it did. I felt very sorry to have to relinquish the belt, but I was not sorry that I had lost the championship, or rather, permitted another to attain it. On the contrary, I was happy because I hopefully looked forward to my speedy return to the United States, where I would be with my friends, and, above all, with my mother."

THE BIG TORONTO SWIMMING CONTEST

—o—

TORONTO—International long distance swimming honors and $30,000 in cash await the fortunate person who finishes first in the $50,000 marathon event that will be held at Toronto, Ont., today, and there is good cause to believe that George Young, who won William Wrigley's $25,000 Catalina Island dash last winter, will pocket 30,000 more iron men late this month.

The course is 21 miles long and water at one point of the journey is expected to be at a temperature of 42 degrees—much too cold for comfort to say the least. This coldness, however, which is the greatest handicap the swimmers will have to overcome, will hamper Young least of all, it appears. George was born here, has lived there all his life and for a considerable number of years, has been swimming in the Grand river.

Norman Ross, the great Chicagoan who finished second to Young in the Catalina grind, also is conceded a good chance, although he is likely to feel the coldness of the water more than Young. The duel appears to be between these two as each relies on the same style of swimming, which is getting a big lead as quickly as possible as disheartening others who might win if the handicaps were not so evident.

Among others who are given a chance are Ernest Vierkotter, Germany; Omer Perreault, Montreal; Olav Farstad, Norway; Mrs. Dorothy Hepworth, England; Nawabi, Hawaii; Madame Jane Sion, Brussels, Belgium; G. Michel, France, and Lee Fourrier, of Long Beach, Calif., it is estimated that 400 swimmers will enter the water, but only about 20 are considered to be in the running.

Half of the $50,000 prize money is being supplied by Wrigley, who has asked that $30,000 be awarded the first place and correspondingly smaller amounts for other places. The first woman to finish will be given $5,000 and if she finishes ahead of the men, she will receive $35,000.

HAVE NEW YORK GIANTS A CHANCE?

—o—

CHICAGO—While the New York Giants have only a mathematical chance of winning the National League pennant they must be figured as having that chance at this stage of the game and still have some supporters who believe they will achieve the top rung. In consideration the outlook for a National League team in the world's series, the Giants then must be given consideration.

The chief weaknesses of the Giants rest with their pitching and catching staff. No team can hope to win a pennant, much less a world's series with a poor battery staff and that of the McGraw outfit is nothing to write home about.

Larry Benton, whom McGraw secured from Boston, is the ace of the pitching staff. He has done exceptionally well in the National League this year, but it would be an optimistic giant rooter who could figure him stopping the Yankee heavy gunners. From the way the Giants use Fitzsimmons, the ordinary man would believe he was having unusual success, but his record does not show it. Barnes has done as well as he, and Grimes is only a little way behind. These four make up the regular Giants pitching staff and it cannot be considered impressive. Clarkson, Henry and Thomas form the relief and they wouldn't stop much in a world's series.

As for the catchers, they have shown nothing remarkable behind the bat and are minus quantities on the offensive. Devormer being the best batter and his mark is surpassed by most of the regular catchers of the league. The Giants started the season with the worst catching staff in the league and although they have made changes since, Taylor, secured from Boston, Devormer and Cuhimags do not bring it much closer to the next worst combination behind the bat.

It is in the infield where the Giants shine, particularly at the bat, it ranking second only to Pittsburgh's in the matter of hitting, with Hornsby, of course, the star of the outfit, closely followed by Jackson. As a fielding combination it is good, probably as well balanced as any in the league, with Reese, a made-over outfielder, at third, the best development of the season. Harper is by far the best in the outfield, with Lindstrom, graduated from third base, outshining Roush, who is showing up. Mueller, a wicked man with the stick, Ott and Mann are the reserves. The infield reserve strength is lacking, with only Thomas and Lindstrom available.

The team ranks second in hitting, leads in home runs and is fourth in stolen bases in the league, proving that its offensive is strong. On the defensive it does not show so well, either afield or in the pitcher's box. It looks like the Giants might make a fight for it in about two games out of four—the rest would be routs. The National wouldn't get far with the Giants as its representatives in the world's series.

THE BIGGEST THING HE KNEW

—o—

Several years ago, after J. Ogden Armour was reported to have refused an offer of $130,000,000 for the business of Armour & Company, then controlled and largely owned by him, he explained his decision to retain the active management of the company's affairs by stating that it was not reached because of any desire to accumulate a few more dollars, but because his job was the biggest thing he knew. Subsequently he was vindicated, without offering any defense, when placed on trial following their indictment under the federal antitrust laws. And yet it is probable that even as a result of this spectacular outcome there never followed, in the thought of the public, a complete vindication of those popularly regarded as the beneficiaries of the so-called "packers" trust." Similar suits filled thereafter, including one in 1917 and another in 1919, were decided against the Government. Perhaps since that time, largely because of the failure of many co-operative packing-house enterprises financed by ranchers and stockmen and other investors in the middle west sections of the United States, and because of the vicissitudes through which some of the larger concerns have passed since the World War, the packer-capitalists have come to be regarded more considerately than formerly, both by producers and consumers of the commodities which they prepare and distribute.

The decline of the Armour family fortune was more spectacular than its rise. It is paradoxical, in a sense, that the first great success of Philip D. Armour, its founder, came in the period of readjustment following the war between the states. The dissipation of the large fortune accumulated by the family began soon after the World War. Its incidents are not without their peculiar and almost pathetic appeal. The process of deflation which were an inevitable sequel to the expansion of plants and holdings induced by what were quite properly regarded as the necessities of the case if American producers and industrialists were to supply food for the allied armies and the people of war-ridden European countries, could not be checked quickly enough to avoid tremendous losses in capital investment.

J. Ogden Armour, with courage and skillful management, recouped a portion of his losses and, in 1925, paid off the last of a loan of $20,000,000 which banks had advanced to him more than two years before. But later he became seriously involved through speculative transactions in grain, with the result that he was obliged to part with most of his bank stocks and other valuable properties. His record, although he was unsuccessful in holding the great wealth which he accumulated, detracts nothing from the name which his father established as a synonym, almost, for affluence and financial power. This is because he dealt openly and fairly and accepted adversity with the courage and fortitude of a soldier. —The Monitor.

MAKING A START

Hamilton Spectator: "Well begun is half done. There are people, young and old, who are very good beginners, but poor finishers; and they do not get very far. There are others who are poor starts, but who, through perseverance, make a fair finish. There is one thing certain, if we decisively at all is made there cannot possibly be any progress.

All beginning is difficult, says the motto. And just because it is difficult many stop right there at the very commencement, despairing of overcoming the initial obstacles. They know that these obstacles can be overcome because they see others who have successfully surmounted them; but they themselves lack the strength of character to tackle them and subdue them. It is the same with every undertaking. The first steps are the most important. There must always be a start.

WHEAT POOL SETTLES PRICE FOR FARMER

—o—

LONDON—A lively controversy has been launched by the denunciation of the Canadian Wheat Pool by Walter Gallacher, director of the Scottish Wholesale Co-operative society, who argues that the pool is a serious menace to British consumers since its advent raised wheat prices.

The significance of the controversy arises from the links between the British Labor party and the Co-operative society, and the Daily Herald, stressing its importance, asked E. F. Wise, a well known authority on food supplies for his views.

Wise replied: "I don't believe the pool has raised wheat prices, and I don't think, except for a short period, that even a wide extension of the pool system could permanently raise them. If it were to be so temporarily, the immediate effect would be the production of larger quantities of wheat all over the world, that would carry its own nemesis.

"The vitally important thing the wheat pool has done is to settle the price for the Canadian farmer."

Wise also emphasises that much of the profit of wheat speculators in Chicago and Winnipeg has been cut out, and gave it as his opinion that the pool system will become world embracing, adding: "These pools are actually an important stage in the reorganization of the world's wheat supply, which the labor report on agriculture contemplates and desires."

Canadians Go Ahead

"While we in this country are urging co-operation among our own farmers, the Canadians have gone and done it.

"In order that such reorganization may be made safe for the consumer, co-operative selling must be able to enter into direct relation with bodies capable of speaking for the whole consuming population.

This will mean state importation of all wheat into Britain as urged in the Labor party's report."

Wise's views are certain to receive very close attention, particularly in Labor circles, and will probably carry much weight with Labor's agricultural policy.

BINDER TWINE MANUFACTURED FROM WESTERN HEMP

—o—

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man.—The Manitoba Cordage Co., of this city, manufacturers of medium and heavy wrapping twine, are now about to manufacture binder twine as well. The concern only started last May to tourn out twines and cordage from hemp grown in Western Canada and appears now to be well established.

MY DOG BOUNCE

—o—

Four pattering feet at dawn announce
My shaggy little dog named Bounce;
He runs quite fast and jumps the wall
Just like a big white bouncing ball;
He likes to carry stones and sticks,
He knows a lot of funny tricks;
At night he turns around and around
And goes to sleep upon the ground.

Will Labor Displace The Liberals

—o—

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass.—With Malcolm MacDonald, the able son of former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, raising the question of whether the rise of the British Labor Party means a quiet but fundamental revolution in Great Britain as significant as any development in the British two-party system since the revolution of 1688, the Institute of Politics turned to a study of the British Commonwealth of Nations, with representatives of Australia, Canada, and other units of the far-flung Empire expounding the problems peculiar to their own countries.

Mr. MacDonald, already initiated into British politics as a Labor candidate for Parliament, and who recently visited the United States as a member of the Oxford debating team, made his return visit to America as interpreter of the new Labor force in British politics, confidently affirming that it will eventually oust the Liberal Party as the embodiment of progressivism in England.

Prof. Herbert Heaten, head of the political science department of Queens University, Kingston, Ont., formerly professor of economics in the University of Sydney, discussed Canadian politics, while the politics of Australia were described by Gerald V. Portus, lecturer in economic history, University of Sydney.

Forecasts Labor Policy

Mr. MacDonald, a poised, eager speaker, attracted particular attention in forecasting the policy of a possible new British Labor Government. Referring to his father on this point without mentioning him by name, Mr. MacDonald said, amid laughter:

"I have heard the last Premier of a Labor Government talk on this matter, and undoubtedly one of the first acts of the party would be to appoint a committee of experts to arrange the nationalization of the coal mines as a first step."

Again Mr. MacDonald showed his familiarity with the affairs of the Labor Party when he forecast an immediate possibility in British politics. This he indicated might be a stalemate between the industrial population voting Labor on one hand, and the agricultural population, voting Conservative, on the other. The Liberal Party he relegated to unimportance in the future.

"The Labor prospects are, I tell you frankly, not rosy red," said Mr. MacDonald. "We have now undoubtedly come to a most interesting stage. I can say emphatically that the industrial events of 1926, the coal strike and the national tie-up, will win for the Labor Party 90 per cent of the industrial votes at the next general election. However, there are 300 agricultural seats in the House of Commons, or an actual majority. Of these seats Labor at present holds exactly one.

Expects Few Farm Seats

"As one who knows a little of the feeling at the headquarters of the Labor Party, I don't think that Labor will win more than one or two more of these farm seats at the next election. The vast majority will vote Conservative."

"If this continues," he concluded, "then factory workers will face farmers in opposite political camps in the House of Commons over a prospect of "a stalemate" The Labor Party, he added, is an "unrepentant" Socialist Party, and has no apologies or excuses to make for its beliefs to Americans.

Lieut. C. B. Gary, American naval officer, asked Mr. MacDonald if the British Labor Party did not fear the cleavage between Capitalism and Socialism, and whether radical elements would not get out of hand, as in the general strike. Many Americans, he said, are congratulating themselves on the fact that American parties are not divided on sharp economic lines.

Seeks Gradual Transition

In answer, Mr. MacDonald said the conflict between Capital and Labor is already roused, but so far as the Labor Party is concerned, it intends to try to may any transition to its economic view as gradual and "British" as possible. Workers were disgusted with the economic weapon, for the general strike was a failure and "defeated itself," so that in future political weapons will be the only tools of Labor, he predicted.

Mr. Portus interposed to assert that the "class struggle" is put into society, according to Australian experience, by industrialization: the formation of the Labor Party does not of itself accentuate class.

Prof. Henry R. Spencer, Ohio State University, rose at this point to contrast the British and American party situations. "The horror of American politics is its unreality," he exclaimed. "We cannot listen to parliamentarians, of which Mr. MacDonald is a type, without envying Great Britain."

Answering a question from Miss Ethel M. Johnson, Assistant Commissioner of Labor for Massachusetts, Mr. MacDonald said that the Baldwin Government's trade union bill has roused much less interest than either the Government or Labor expected.

The tradition of the two party system has been the strength of the machinery of the British National Government for more than two centuries, Mr. MacDonald said. The division between the two parties has usually been effected through the difference between Conservative and Liberals. Now there are three parties, Conservative, Labor and Liberals, but, to the Speaker's way of thinking, the chance of revival of the latter is "small." "This change," said Mr. MacDonald, "amounts to a revolution in British politics, for the Labor Party brings a new radical philosophy into government."

Defining the difference between this philosophy and that of the Conservatives, Mr. MacDonald said the latter party supports the main structure of present industrialized society, and upholds private ownership and initiative. However, the prevalent poverty in Great Britain has caused it to embark on an ameliorative program of social reform. The liberalizing of the Conservative Government, he indicated, is a contributing factor in the decline of the Liberal Party.

The Labor Party, the son of the former Labor Prime Minister declared, does not believe that community prosperity is to come from an "unmitigated" system of private ownership and initiative in industry. It is a Socialist Party, he said. Although prepared to bring its socialization program and the nationalization of the great industries into effect slowly, yet he said, it is prepared to start to work "immediately on securing a majority in the House of Commons."

Mr. Malcolm MacDonald was one of the University students who debated in Calgary a couple of years ago, and became a general favorite through his unusual ability as a debater.

SHOULD CANADIANS RECEIVE EQUAL CONSIDERATION ?

—o—

According to a recent anounced plan for the migration of British youths to Canada, large sums of money are to be advanced in equal amounts from the Canadian and British treasuries by way of loans to enable these youths to purchase farms. The money is to be paid back over a term of years.

While there is no class of settler more welcome in Canada than the British, and while the proposed plan of settlement should receive careful critical examination, the announcement has inevitably called forth the question: Should not Canadian youths whether they be the sons of farmers who desire to get farms of their own, or city-bred boys who wish to take up farming, receive at least as much encouragement from the Canadian Government as newcomers. Canada has been losing many of her own sons by emigration to the United States. They have gone because they have believed that by crossing the border they might meet with superior opportunities.

LANGDON

A very pleasant party is reported by the young people at the home of Miss Ada Dye last Monday evening.

• • •

Miss Nellie Barron was a visitor to Carbon last week at the home of Mrs. J. O'Rourke.

• • •

One of the nicest picnics of the summer was held August 24th in the Park, when the Union Sunday School had their annual sport's day. The weather was perfect; the children's races and other events were well arranged. A good supper, with plenty of ice cream, and then everyone went home happy.

• • •

Langdon B. B. team went to Carseland Saturday and defeated their team in a good game. Score 9 to 3. Sunday the Belseker boys played on the local diamond here and were beaten, in the best game seen here this season. Score 11 to 16.

• • •

The annual meeting of the Langdon and Bow River Agricultural Society was held August 23rd. The President, W. Allcock reported having held the best fair in the history of the organization. The stock judge, Mr. McIntosh congratulated them on the splendid exhibit in all departments, and on the fine new corrals, etc., erected this year. The department is of the opinion that a two day Fair should be held here, as the business can hardly be conducted in one day. The new officers elected were: President, L. Bittle; 1st Vice-president, H. Phillips; 2nd Vice-president, H. Dain; Secretaary, A. Botsford. Names of directors will be given later.

• • •

School will begin September 1st, with Mr. Bickell as principal and Miss Proudfoot as primary teacher. The results of the Departmental Examinations were very poor, only two pupils passing out of twelve who wrote. Two took the exams in Grade X and one passed six in Grade IX and all failed in some units; four in grade VIII and one passed.

CARSELAND

Mr. and Mrs. R. Forner returned home Sunday morning, after spending a holiday in the East.

• • •

Olga Saddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Saddle, was removed to the Hospital at Strathmore, suffering from spinal meningitis.

• • •

A large turnout of cars visited the G. B. Field Farm last Friday and Saturday to witness the two combines giving a demonstration on a field of rye.

• • •

Mr and Mrs. Norman Mutch have gone east on their annual vacation.

• • •

Harvesting will be in full swing south of the river this week. Very heavy crops are in general throughout the district.

• • •

Joe. Halloren, of the Pioneer Elevators, is at work erecting a building to be used as a coal shed for this winter's distributing.

• • •

Messrs Gardner J. Nelson and J. Deines have been busy in the fields with the binders during last week.

Edward Robinson, son of Mrs. Violet Robinson, was removed to the Calgary Hospital Sunday, suffering from rheumatic fever.

• • •

If the Bow Valley Municipality has any surplus money in the treasury the river hill would be a mighty good place to spend it before this season's hauling gets started.

• • •

The Carseland Express, on its daily run to Calgary last Thursday morning, had the misfortune to break a spindle bolt and take a header down the embankment seventeen miles out of Calgary on the Strathmore road.

• • •

This week will see a complete three new motor school van service in effect.

• • •

Andy Ostrom's new home is in the hands of a crew of plasterers putting on the finishing touches. After completion Andy figures on going a step more and purchase a large new Brougham car for the family.

• • •

The four elevator grain buyers are doing their best to out-match each other in making first-class driveways into the elevators.

• • •

Messrs Hill, Haskayne and Forbes during the past week have been busy gravelling Railway Avenue in front of their respective properties.

• • •

The question of town police for the fall months is going the rounds.

• • •

Calgary visitors during the week were W. L. Brown, Frank Nash, A. E. Anderson, J. M. Christensen, C. G. Christensen and Alf. Anderson.

-: Local Jottings :-

Mr. and Mrs. T. Gatenby, who spent the week at Banff, returned on Friday.

• • •

Marshal Kimpton is a busy man these days, having received the contract for the electrical work for the C.P.R. at the station. The electrical business is sure picking up, remarks Marshall, as he addled off to get a T-bone steak before proceeding to work.

• • •

In the list of Stampede Contributors published last week the name of Harry Thorburn for $25 was inadvertenily omitted. Harry not only contributed $25, but also got the Lethbridge Brewing Company to donate a silver cup for the championship steer decorating contest.

• • •

Mr. Watson, of the Strathmore teaching staff has rented Mr. E. W. R. Lambert's house on Third Street, and his friends have not yet been informed whether he intends to join the army of benedicts, or that he has some other plan to make use of the home.

• • •

Bill Thorburn, the well-known Calgary Elk, is a much disappointed man that his brother Harry has disposed of the Strathmore Hotel. Bill has been in the habit of spending each week end in Strathmore.

• • •

Miss Edith Hirtle is leaving this week for Sackville, N.B.

• • •

Miss MacLean, of Bassano, is the guest of Miss Ida Fredericks.

• • •

R. A. Brown, President of the United Electric Company was in Brooks a few days ago, in connection with arranging an electric service for that town.

• • •

Miss Blanche De Harney, of Acme, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Giroux.

• • •

Rev. Mr. Currie, formerly Rector of St. Michaels and All Angels Church, has been relieving Rev. J. S. Orton at Innisfail, while the latter was spending a vacation at Banff.

• • •

Dr. E. G. Simmonds, who has been spending a vacation at the Coast, has returned strong and vigorous, and in fine fettle to handle with ease the bad acting molars.

• • •

The School Board have appointed Albert Currie to succeed E. P. Foster, who resigned. Mr. Currie has a very excellent record, and will be assigned grades 6 and 7, while Mr. Watson becomes vice-principal and assists Mr. Crowther with the High School work. Mr. Currie is an enthusiastic hockey player, hence will be able to "carry on" much to the satisfaction of the Junior Hockey Players.

• • •

R. Anderson has disposed of his barber business to Frank Scales, who recently moved to Calgary. Bob Anderson has been very popular, and has for years given much of his time in the interests of athletics, especially baseball, and as marshal for the many parades. He is intending to remove to Ontario, and has a very interesting proposition to locate in the new industrial city of Fort Erie.

• • •

Miss Bertha Gray, who has been visiting at Hanna, returned home on Monday.

• • •

Richard Lilly has returned from a trip to Spokane, Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver. While at the coast he had the pleasure of inspecting one of His Majesty's Warships and an ocean liner that had just returned from the Orient.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Mileson have returned from their vacation at the coast.

George Risdon, son of William Risdon had a narrow escape from serious injury Monday. He was picked up by a motorist, who lollied the young lad that he was going to take him away. The lad became imbued with the idea that he was being kidnapped, and jumped from the car while it was going about twenty miles an hour. He suffered quite a shock and was unconscious for a couple of hours. However, he did not sustain any serious injury.

• • •

The British Editors who are touring Canada, will stop at Strathmore on Thursday for a couple of hours, and will be entertained by Mr. Geo. H. Jones at the Canadian Pacific Supply Farm.

• • •

Mrs. E. O W. Whiteside and Bernice, who have been at the coast for the past month, have returned.

• • •

Miss Geraldine Van Tighem left this week for Calgary, where she will attend school.

Mrs. F. B. Young was the guest of honor at a delightfully arranged bridge on Monday evening, which claimed Mrs. Ridley as hostess. Three tables were in play, Mrs. T. E. Wright being the fortunate winner of the prize. At midnight delicious refreshments were served, and a merry hour was spent over the coffee cups. The guests included: Mrs. Young, Mrs. Stockton, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. Van Tighem, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Joe. French Mrs. Sugden, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Moore, Miss Gibson and Miss Evelyn Moore.

Mrs. Young and children left this afternoon for St. John, where they will spend some months.

• • •

Miss Mildred Marcum will attend the Normal School in Calgary this fall.

• • •

D. M. Lundie, who has been acting manager of the Royal Bank at Carseland, has returned today to Strathmore, looking fine as silk, after staying at the Carseland Chateau for the past two weeks. Mr. Lundie reports a wonderful crop in the Carseland district, with hail losses up to date of about five per cent.

• • •

Principal S. H. Crowther has arrived back from his holidays, looking fine and fit, and like the small boy, would not have been annoyed had the vacation been extended another month.

• • •

Wilfred and Frederick Ridley have returned from Chas, B.C., where they spent their vacation.

• • •

Tom Chamberlain Jr. will attend Edmonton University this Fall.

• • •

Rev. Wilkinson has been in attendance at the School of Religion at Mount Royal College, Calgary.

• • •

C. A. Lydiatt and Stuart have returned from Vancouver.

CANADA GETS GREATEST U. S. TWO-YEAR-OLD

The complete dispersal of the herd of the Minnesota Holstein Company, Austin, Minnesota, on July 29, resulted in a total of $65,800 for sixty-one members of this herd, or an average of $1,078.69. This offering was taken by thirty-three buyers from thirteen States, Canada and South America, and marked the high point in Holstein auction sales since the Erickson dispersal in 1924 with its average of $1,139 for eighty-six head. May Walker Ollie Homestead, twelve-year-old, went for $4,000 on the bid of F. E. Murphy, Breckenridge, Minnesota. She has stood for many years as the U.S. champion butter producer with her yearly record of 1,523 lbs. butter, and she is the only cow in the history of the breed to produce three offspring that have won All-American honors, her two-year-old daughter, May Walker Inka Segis, last year's All-American senior yearling, and now promising a 900-lb. yearly record as a junior two-year-old, topped the sale at $7,100. This beautiful heifer, one of the outstanding individuals of her age that the breed has ever produced, represents the last word in all that is desirable in a foundation animal with her record-breaking 1,500-lb. dam, her own high record, the distinguished work of her sire, and as a final test of her greatness the quality of her young daughter, a December calf, that was good enough to command $4,500 in the sale from Detroit Creamery Farms. May Walker Inka Segis, herself, was purchased for Senator A. C. Hardy, Avondale Farm, Brockville, Ontario, Canada, by R. M. Holtby, one of the best known judges in Canada, who came to the sale especially to buy this particular animal. Mayjag Farms, of Iowa, were the final contenders on this heifer, dropping out only at the $7,000 mark. Sir Bess Ormsby May, youngest son of May Walker Ollie Homestead, was the second highest priced animal in the sale, going at $6,200 to Waldo S. Kellogg, Derby, Connecticut. He is a son of Sir Bess Ormsby Fobes, and was a prominent winner with the Minnesota Holstein Company herd last year. Thus, May Walker Ollie Homestead, her daughter, son, and a daughter of her daughter sold for a total of $21,800.

HUGE LIGHT MAY BE SEEN FOR 200 MILES

— o —

NEW YORK—What is said to be the largest searchlight in the world, said to be visible for 200 miles and constructed as a beacon to ald fliers along the proposed route from Boston to New Orleans, will be turned on for the first time to illuminate Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson at Charlottesville, Va.

The light was constructed by the Virginia Public Service Company, a subsidiary of the National Public Service Corporation, which reports that it has a light intensity of 1,250,000,000 candle power or five times stronger than any other searchlight yet constructed. It has been set up three miles across the valley from Monticello, on the roof of a hotel.

An ingenius method will be used to turn on the light, which will be done from New York. A beam of light trained on a statue of Thomas Jefferson in the municipal building will throw the master switch in Charlottesville which will be actuated through a series of wire connections maintained by the Western Union.

According to engineers, the heat generated by the searchlight will make it the hottest spot on earth, reaching a temperature of 38,000 degrees F. when the light is on. The whole surface of the sphere is covered with a lens of quartz prisms which absorbs much of the heat. It consumes 17,200 watts and is capable of being felt by a person 1000 feet away.

The beacon at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., one-fifth the size of the new searchlight, and the next largest in this country, has been seen by airmen 150 miles away, despite an intervening rain belt 40 miles wide.

The new light is expected to aid night flying as well as to make possible experiments to ascertain the speed with which a light beam leaves the earth and goes off into space.

The design is not new except in size, and was made by the Sperry Gyroscope Corporation of Brooklyn, for the Virginia Public Service Corporation. It moves through 360 degrees azimuth, which means that it can be trained on any point within a sphere. It measures 67 inches across, or 22 inches more than the largest searchlight made before it.

GERMANY HOPES TO REGAIN COLONIES

— o —

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. — Germany's loss of its colonies constitutes an injustice which the German people look to the League of Nations to rectify; Great Britain's break with Soviet Russia justifies the non-recognition policy of the United States. These were declarations made respectively by Dr Peter Reinhold, formerly German Finance Minister, and by Sir Arthur Willet of the British Foreign Office, speaking at the Williamstown Institute of Politics.

Dr. Reinhold also speaking with the authority of a former cabinet member, and as one expected again to hold office in the Reich, stated that his country feels the League of Nations "must sooner or later" take action to restore Germany's lost colonies. At first he said Germany would be satisfied with a single mandate but the present status, deprived of them entirely injures German pride and entails economic disadvantages.

Sir Arthur Willett, replying to another question, said the disposal of the former German mandates colonies lies with the dominions rather than Britain, and that the process of restoring those in dominion hands must come from them, through the League of Nations, rather than from London.

To another question, Sir Arthur declared that in his personal opinion the British break with Russia vindicates the American policy of not recognizing Russia. Britain has had less trade with Russia than America, despite Britain's more favorable diplomatic action, he said. He denied that England intends to form a bloc in Europe against Russia and stated that as soon as the Soviets "cease their campaign against our institutions we shall be glad to renew our relations once more."

IMMENSE STAR EXPLODED IN SOUTHERN HEAVENS

—o—

CHICAGO—A star of a type identical with our sun, but said to be 30,000 times as large, has just exploded in the southern sky half way up the zenith, according to a cablegram from Germany to Prof. E. B. Frost, director of the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis.

The explosion of the star known as Nova Aquilae is the first reported in two years, Professor Frost said. No cause of the explosion can be given.

The expansion or explosion of the star was announced by Dr. Max Wolff, of Heidelberg University and confirmed by photographs taken at Harvard University.

"These actions," Professor Frost said, "are believed to be due to sudden trigger-like release of interatomic energy, due, very likely, to the unbelievable heat of the sun's interiors. Temperatures inside the stars vary from 500,000,000 to 100,000,000 degrees Fahrenheit."

Illustrating energy contained in atoms and what could be accomplished if it could be released and utilized, the professor said a glass of water contained enough energy to send the Maurentania across the Atlantic ocean and back. Or it would send all the automobiles in the country from Chicago to New York and return.

"This energy, suddenly released, drives from the stars the encircling gaseous shells which reach the planets in the wake of shriveling heat. The stars are not destroyed by the expansions, the nucleus remains and in time acquires another gaseous shell," the professor said.

WINTER WHEAT IN THE CEREAL DISTRICT

—o—

Winter wheat has been grown successfully this season by Mr. Gid Osborn, one mile west of Cereal. He sowed eleven acres, and cut a good crop several weeks ago. He believes it will yield from 30 to 40 bushels to the acre. He is so pleased with it that he wants to put in 200 acres just as soon as he can.

Winter wheat may have a place on the farms here, and from a valuable adjunct to the regular crops.

If our readers are interested in winter wheat, the following letter by G. S. Noble, will be illuminative:

Ideal moisture conditions this season have produced many very attractive winter wheat fields and greatly increased interest in its growth. From my limited experience of late years I think we should give winter wheat more attention. But many farmers are planning to seed large acreages, in some cases, out of season or on land not properly prepared or with drills not suitable for the work.

We shall do well to keep in mind that much of the land seeded last fall was reseeded with spring crops and that if moisture conditions had not been ideal both last fall and this spring the results would have been even more disappointing. I would, therefore advise against seeding large acreages except when it can be done in properly prepared land at the right time and with proper tools.

Must Summerfallow

It is important that land for a fall crop be summerfallowed early, no deeper than five inches and that a clean, firm seed bed be prepared. To best protect against winter or early spring killing, common in Alberta, seed should be placed five inches below the general surface, but should not be covered with more than two and one half inches of dirt. The simplest means of accomplishing this that I have seen is the ordinary hoe drill set at 9-inch or 12-inch instead of 6 inch spacing. The wider spacing is necessary, because with the 6-inch spacing the dirt from the rear holes fills the furrows made by the front hoes.

When used at 12-inch spacing small bandiron wings should be welded on each side of the hoes about three inches above the point, simulating the form of a duckfoot shovel about seven inches in width thus leaving a space of about five inches between the rear points of adjacent shovels. On land that is inclined to drift I prefer the 9-inch spacing without the wing attachements, since the larger shovels leave a larger ridge that requires much more fall growth to cover sufficiently to prevent drifting.

Single-Disc Drill

Next to the hoe drill the single-disc drill is preferable. One or the other is necessary in the case of a high-wheel drill if loss or even entire failure is to be avoided. The single-disc should be spaced at nine inches. To change either the hoe drill or single disc drill from 9-inch to 9-inch spacing, start with the short draw-bar next to the wheel just the same as in the case of 6-inch spacing. The second, which is the long draw-bar, can be spread to 12 inches, thus missing one clevis. This results in the desired 9-inch spacing.

With each alternate grain-spout slanted three inches and the unused feed holes closed, the drill is as complete as when used in the ordinary way, except that extra heavy pressure-springs should be had for the draw bars. I have not tried the single-disc in this way and it may be even preferable to the hoe where the ground is not perfectly clean. I am also using 75-pound packers, cast by the Lethbridge Iron Works, which roll in the furrows, effectually packing the land and also pressing the seed into the furrows.

Many Advantages

The advantages of this method of seeding are that the roots are deeply and firmly established and that the wheat probably lies dormant a little longer in the spring. Another advantage of perhaps even greater importance is the fact that the spring cracking of the surface soil takes place in the top of the ridges, leaving the roots undisturbed and unaffected by sudden changes of temperature. Also wheat seeded in this way can usually be harrowed safely in the spring for the purpose of killing weeds.

Where neither of the above methods is possible the 7-inch spaced single-disc press drill may be used. In this case all the pressure possible should be applied so long as seed is not covered more than 2½ inches.

Great Advantage

As to amount of seed and dates of seeding, results at our experiment stations seem to favor September 1, and one bushel. But one great advantage of fall crops is that they prevent soil drifting; and on land that is apt to drift badly I think it is safest to seed at least the west part of the field between August 5 and 15, in which case I would say that from 40 pounds to 50 pounds would do. Our present crop was seeded from August 1 to September 1, with amounts ranging from 30 pounds to 40 pounds and the portion seeded with 35 pounds from August 15 to 20 appears at least as good as any. It must be taken into account, however, that weather conditions of late have been ideal and that the experiment stations' work covers a period of seasons.

My experience with fall wheat during the past six years convinces me that it is a valuable and dependable crop and that anyone who will take the pains to handle it properly will be well satisfied with results.—Calgary Herald.

"Why, how's that?"

"How's that? Why, because Jack stayed all night with his chum, and the maid slept in his bed last night!"

BOOKMAKERS IN ENGLAND NOW FACE BANKRUPTCY

—o—

MANCHESTER, Eng.—Prior to the purchase of Call Boy for £60,000 by Sir H. Mailey-Seeley, brother of the late owner, Frank Curzon, the highest price given for any thoroughbred was £53,000 for Tracery by Senor S. J. Unsue, of the Argentine. The next best was £40,000 by J. B. Joel for Prince Palatine. It was stated that the Aga Khan offered Sir John Rutherford £100,000 for Solario, but the latter was not for sale.

However, one of the best English thoroughbreds has gone abroad to the Argentine. Lord Woolavington has sold his three-year old Applecross to Senor Anthony Santamarina, for a substantial sum. He is a well bred colt by Hurry On-Edna and was bought as a yearling for 4,100 guineas. He finished seventh in this year's Two Thousand Guineas and second in the Derby.

Capt. Jefferson Cohn, who races extensively on the Continent, has aired his grievance in the press regarding the sale of Call Boy. He stated that he offered £65,000 for the thoroughbred, but received a reply That Call Boy would not be sold alone, and that stable was on the market at £107,000. He offered £100,000, but in the meantime Call Boy had been sold. He is not the only disgruntled prospective purchaser, and had the Derby winner been put up for auction it is probable he would have realized something like £100,000 alone.

Sir Victor Sassoon has bought Comedienne, the dam of Call Boy, for £11,000, which is a big figure for a brood mare, but she is well worth it, for in addition to Call Boy, Comedy King proved himself a really classic thoroughbred.

Further evidence was given to the House of Commons on the working of the Totalizator by Australian experts, but it is not expected that such a system will be established in English racecourses for years to come. The majority of members are against it, and, of course, so are the bookmakers, who have had a very bad season so far.

It is estimated that during the Goodwood Week they lost more in one day than they have ever done in a bad week. Unless some rank outsider wins the remaining classics—St. Leger, Cæsarewitch and Cambridgeshire—many will have to file their petitions in bankruptcy, so heavily are they involved.

CHICAGO CUBS ARE SURE FINANCIAL WINNERS

—o—

Whether the Chicago Cubs win the National League pennant or not they will have turned into the club treasury the largest amount of money in the history of the team. When the team departed for its Eastern invasion the receipts for the year were $512,000 over that of any previous year and with their percentage of the Eastern games and a long home stand yet before them, the Cubs probably will surpass the gate receipts of the season for any baseball club.

But all National League teams are not profiting accordingly. During the first half of the season it is known that Cincinnati, New York, Boston and Philadelphia lost heavily. The Reds and Giants have picked up considerably since then, but the heavy expenses of the New York team cut such a nick in the receipts that only a sensational finish will put the Stoneham-McGraw outfit in a real dividend-paying basis.

Pittsburgh did fairly well the first half of the season, but the fans are said to have deserted the Pirates in droves lately and Barney Dreyfuss isn't feeling particularly happy. Breadon, Rickey and Hornsby haven't helped the St. Louis Cardinals any and the champions of last year have not been drawing the attendance their position would seem to justify. Brooklyn has done fairly well, considering its lowly position.

STUNTS NOT LIKED BY MRS. LINDBERGH

—o—

CLEVELAND, O.—Ordinary, commonplace flying with the stunts left out will do more to boost aviation than any other thing, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, said here while visiting friends. Mrs. Lindbergh flew from Detroit in one of the tri-motored monoplanes of the Ford company.

"Air planes are for practical use," she said, "and they afford a pleasant and safe means of transportation. That fact must be emphasized before flying becomes general and really popular.

"Flying for business and pleasure should be as much in the public eye as flying for prizes and stunt flying so that it will be brought before the public as vividly as the big prize flights."

Mrs Lindbergh and her party flew back to Detroit at the conclusion of the dinner party. The trip to Cleveland was made in a little more than an hour. "We had a very pleasant trip over," Mrs. Lindbergh said. "Riding in the enclosed cabin is delightful, although not so thrilling possibly as in an open cockpit."

Mrs. Lindbergh said she has taken many trips with her son, and that she knew a year ago that he had plans for crossing the Atlantic.

DELEGATES FROM POULTRY CONGRESS VISIT STRATHMORE

The Town of Strathmore was specially favored, in being visited by the delegates of the World's Poultry Congress, which recently finished its work.

The trip through Canada is being conducted by the Department of Agriculture, and the delegates number nearly one hundred and fifty, with over forty countries represented.

The reputation of the Canadian Pacific Supply Farm, which has become world wide, and was one of the points which the delegates were particularly anxious to visit, and will, no doubt, result in much favorable publicity for this section of Alberta.

The delegates include many very eminent men, specially trained in special farm work; men particularly qualified to present to their own home people, very valuable information, obtained at first hand by these delegates.

The Province of Alberta has a great future in the development of the poultry industry, in fact, is at the present time losing much through this very profitable part of farming, which is so much less than it should be.

The regular pay check which the Poultry and Dairy brings to every producer, will very materially improve the business conditions of the province when it becomes an important adjunct to grain production.

IS PROVINCE PRODUCING TOO MANY TEACHERS?

The Strathmore School Board recently advertised a vacancy on the teaching staff in the Calgary Herald, and received eighty replies, some by letter, some by wire and some in person.

So far, so good, and it quite well shows the pulling power of the advertising columns of the Calgary Herald, but also clearly proves that the result of turning out teachers in wholesale quantities from the Normal Schools of Alberta is unsound.

The time has surely arrived when the Department of Education might very well raise the standard, and insist upon a longer period of preparation.

The using of public funds to turn out a supply of teachers much beyond the needs of the Province is a very short-sighted policy.

The result is to lower the pay for teachers, and kill the teachers who have natural qualifications for that profession become discouraged in not receiving adequate salaries, and abandon the work to engage in other work which holds out better inducements financially, and yet in many cases for which they are not so well qualified to deliver a public service.

The line of effort should be to retain the teachers who prove their special adaptability to this profession, and not have them crowded out by mere numbers of competitors.

DR. MACLEAN BECOMES BRITISH COLUMBIA PREMIER

Dr. J. D. MacLean, who has been the Finance Minister in the Oliver Government of British Columbia, has been sworn in as Prime Minister.

The new Government will be constituted of all the members of the old government ,each member retaining the same portfolio that he held under the late premier.

The advancement of the new premier has been very rapid.

A few years ago he was quietly practising his profession in the small town of Greenwood, when he became the successful Liberal candidate.

He made a most favorable impression in the Legislature, and when the first vacancy occurred, he was taken into the Cabinet, and soon became the right bower of the late "Honest" John Oliver.

The health of Mr. Oliver became impaired, and Dr. MacLean, in a great measure, took over the work of the Premier.

HOW LONG, OH LORD, HOW LONG?

Mayor Foster, of Toronto, who is a successful business man, and very much interested in Canadian coal development for Canadians, has wired Hon. Mackenzie-King, urging that the Railway Commissioners hurry up their report on the coal rate investigation.

Mayor Foster readily recognises that soon the railways will be top heavy handling the big Western grain crop, and that another Summer season will have passed, and little if any Alberta coal supplied to the Ontario market.

Some day, somehow, somebody is going to catch the "colored gentleman" who is so active in blocking this Western coal development, and some of the politicians will wonder what happened to them when the voters get a chance to express their views through the ballot box.

As far as coal delivery is concerned, Alberta gets about the same result whether they send down Liberals, Tories, Progressives or Independents as representatives.

The blocade has been very successfully handled up to date by the Eastern Coal Kings—for themselves—but sooner or later the machine will blow up.

WHY WORK FIVE DAYS EACH WEEK?

"Adopting the principle of the five-day 40-hour week, and deciding to ask for Federal legislation which would prevent employers from importing labor without first applying to the Govt. employment bureau and securing a certificate that they are unable to supply the demand, the Trades and Labor Congress got down to business. —Calgary Albertan

Why five days—why not cut out work altogether? Let everyone get a job and just call around on pay day.

What's the use of spoiling a perfectly good week by working five days?

Let all the farmers sell out to Fred White & Co., and each of them drop in every Saturday night before going to the picture show and get their pay check. Lovely, and just as easy as getting blood from a stone.

PRINCE OF WALES KEENLY INTERESTED IN SPORTS

The Prince of Wales, whose many engagements call for a certain amount of physical endurance, is said to be as "fit" as any man in the Kingdom. Though of slight build, his muscular development is good; and, owing to an extraordinary keenness for games (dating from pre-war undergraduate times), he is never "sick or sorry." In a word, H. R. H. is "whippy," to use a term which old athletes know, and of which the present generation probably had never even heard.

In his Oxford days the Prince trained systematically, and before he had kept his first term it was evident that he was no weakling. A ten mile walk meant nothing to him; indeed, when in the University O. T. C. he marched twenty miles one day, attending a function at the end of it.

Just before the war H. R. H. gained fame as a cross-country runner, easily outdistancing the other starters; like Dorando, he proved to be a stayer amongst stayers. Indeed, had the Royal undergraduate entered the lists professionally, there is no knowing what honor and glory might have been his. A "dry bob," the Prince did not care for rowing; nor does he row now-a-days. But the more applied forms of activity, beagling, for example, are a joy to him. In fact, he runs with the beagles whenever the chance presents itself.

During the long-drawn-out war, H. R. H. took an immense amount of exercise. He played football; or, if the attentions of the enemy made the game impossible, stupendously long walks took its place. He propelled a humble "push bike," disappearing for hours, and returning happy and hungry, to the gratification of H. Q., who had been much harassed by his athletic proclivities. "Keep fit" was the Royal motto, and the Prince lived up to it almost every hour of the day. He had—and still has—a horror of becoming flabby. "I'm not likely to get fat," said he, only a few days ago. "But I'm hanged if I mean to get flabby. Ugh." Flabbiness, you see, is his bugbear, and with a capital B.

So H. R. H. snatches every moment he can for exercise. When anywhere near a links, the "royal and ancient game claims him: he losses no chance of playing. Like "Wullie," in the Scottish caddies' song, Prince would like to be "gowfin a' th' day." This however, not being feasible, he occasionally takes long tramps in his Duchy of Cornwall, which puts him in fine fettle.

Racquets may not be as popular as it once was. The Prince, however, is a keen player, and an uncommonly good one ,too, many a game being put in between a morning and an afternoon engagement. "It makes one fit in five minutes," is the Royal dictum. H. R. H. plays tennis at Buckingham Palace, varying the performance by changing into jersey and "shorts" and running round the grounds. Or, like Harsund al Rashid he takes a brisk walk abroad.

"Why, how's that?"

"How's that? Why, because Jack stayed all night with his chum, and the maid slept in his bed last night!"

BOOKMAKERS IN ENGLAND NOW FACE BANKRUPTCY

—o—

MANCHESTER, Eng.—Prior to the purchase of Call Boy for £60,000 by Sir H. Malleby-Seeley, brother of the late owner, Frank Curzon, the highest price given for any thoroughbred was £53,000 for Tracery by Senor S. J. Unsue, of the Argentine. The next best was £40,000 by J. B. Joel for Prince Palatine. It was stated that the Aga Khan offered Sir John Rutherford £100,000 for Solario, but the latter was not for sale.

However, one of the best English thoroughbreds has gone abroad to the Argentine. Lord Woolavington has sold his three-year-old Applecross to Senor Anthony Santamarina, for a substantial sum. He is a well bred colt by Hurry On-Edna and was bought as a yearling for 4,100 guineas. He finished seventh in this year's Two Thousand Guineas and 3rd in the Derby.

Capt. Jefferson Cohn, who races extensively on the Continent, has aired his grievance in the press regarding the sale of Call Boy. He stated that he offered £65,000 for the thoroughbred, but received a reply that Call Boy would not be sold alone, and that stable was on the market at £107,000. He offered £100,000, but in the meantime Call Boy had been sold. He is not the only disgruntled prospective purchaser, and had the Derby winner been put up for auction it is probable he would have realized something like £100,000 alone.

Sir Victor Sassoon has bought Comedienne, the dam of Call Boy, for £31,000, which is a high figure for a brood mare, but she is well worth it, for in addition to Call Boy, Comedy King proved himself a really classic thoroughbred.

Further evidence was given to the House of Commons on the working of the Totalizator by Australian experts, but it is not expected that such a system will be established in English racecourses for years to come. The majority of members are against it, and, of course, so are the bookmakers, who have had a very bad season so far.

It is estimated that during the Goodwood Week they lost more in one day than they have ever done in a bad week. Unless some rank outsider wins the remaining classics—St. Leger, Caesarewitch and Cambridgeshire—many will have to file their petitions in bankruptcy, so heavily are they involved.

CHICAGO CUBS ARE SURE FINANCIAL WINNERS

—o—

Whether the Chicago Cubs win the National League pennant or not they will have turned into the club treasury the largest amount of money in the history of the team. When the team departed for its Eastern invasion the receipts for the year were $512,000 over that of any previous year and with their percentage of the Eastern games and a long home stand yet before them, the Cubs probably will surpass the gate receipts of the season for any baseball club.

But all National League teams are not profiting accordingly. During the first half of the season it is known that Cincinnati, New York, Boston and Philadelphia lost heavily. The Reds and Giants have picked up considerably since then, but the heavy expenses of the New York team cut such a nick in the receipts that only a sensational finish will put the Stoneham-McGraw outfit in a real dividend-paying basis.

Pittsburgh did fairly well the first half of the season, but the fans are said to have deserted the Pirates in droves lately and Barney Dreyfuss isn't feeling particularly happy. Brandon, Rickey and Hornsby haven't helped the St. Louis Cardinals any and the champions of last year have not been drawing the attendances their position would seem to justify. Brooklyn has done fairly well, considering its lowly position.

STUNTS NOT LIKED BY MRS. LINDBERGH

—o—

CLEVELAND, O.—Ordinary, commonplace flying with the stunts left out will do more to boost aviation than any other thing., Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, said here while visiting friends. Mrs. Lindbergh flew from Detroit in one of the tri-motored monoplanes of the Ford company.

"Air planes are for practical use," she said, "and they afford a pleasant and safe means of transportation. That fact must be emphasized before flying becomes general and really popular.

"Flying for business and pleasure should be as much in the public eye as flying for prizes and stunt flying so that it will be brought before the public as vividly as the big prize flights."

Mrs Lindbergh and her party flew back to Detroit at the conclusion of the dinner party. The trip to Cleveland was made in a little more than an hour. "We had a very pleasant trip over," Mrs. Lindbergh said. "Riding in the enclosed cabin is delightful, although not so thrilling possibly as in an open cockpit."

Mrs. Lindbergh said she has taken many trips with her son, and that she knew a year ago that he had plans for crossing the Atlantic.

DELEGATES FROM POULTRY CONGRESS VISIT STRATHMORE

The Town of Strathmore was specially favored, in being visited by the delegates of the World's Poultry Congress, which recently finished its work.

The trip through Canada is being conducted by the Department of Agriculture, and the delegates number nearly one hundred and fifty, with over forty countries represented.

The reputation of the Canadian Pacific Supply Farm, which has become world wide, and was one of the points which the delegates were particularly anxious to visit, and will, no doubt, result in much favorable publicity for this section of Alberta.

The delegates include many very eminent men, specially trained in special farm work; men particularly qualified to present to their own home people, very valuable information, obtained at first hand by these delegates.

The Province of Alberta has a great future in the development of the poultry industry, in fact, is at the present time losing much through this very profitable part of farming, which is so much less than it should be.

The regular pay check which the Poultry and Dairy brings to every producer, will very materially improve the business conditions of the province when it becomes an important adjunct to grain production.

IS PROVINCE PRODUCING TOO MANY TEACHERS?

The Strathmore School Board recently advertised a vacancy on the teaching staff in the Calgary Herald, and received eighty replies, some by letter, some by wire and some in person.

So far, so good, and it quite well shows the pulling power of the advertising columns of the Calgary Herald, but also clearly proves that the result of turning out teachers in wholesale quantities from the Normal Schools of Alberta is unsound.

The time has surely arrived when the Department of Education might very well raise the standard, and insist upon a longer period of preparation.

The using of public funds to turn out a supply of teachers much beyond the needs of the Province is a very short-sighted policy.

The result is to lower the pay for teachers, and thus the teachers who have natural qualifications for that profession become discouraged in not receiving adequate salaries, and abandon the work to engage in other work which holds out better inducements financially, and yet in many cases for which they are not so well qualified to deliver a public service.

The line of effort should be to retain the teachers who prove their special adaptability to this profession, and not have them crowded out by mere numbers of competitors.

DR. MACLEAN BECOMES BRITISH COLUMBIA PREMIER

Dr. J. D. MacLean, who has been the Finance Minister in the Oliver Government of British Columbia, has been sworn in as Prime Minister.

The new Government will be contrived of all the members of the old government, each member retaining the same portfolio that he held under the late premier.

The advancement of the new premier has been very rapid.

A few years ago he was quietly practising his profession in the small town of Greenwood, when he became the successful Liberal candidate.

He made a most favorable impression in the Legislature, and when the first vacancy occurred, he was taken into the Cabinet, and soon became the right bower of the late "Honest" John Oliver.

The health of Mr. Oliver became impaired, and Dr. MacLean, in a great measure, took over the work of the Premier.

COSGRAVE REQUESTS ANOTHER ELECTION IN OCTOBER

—o—

DUBLIN—Political leaders of the Irish Free State were discussing possible candidates and campaign plans for the general parliamentary elections fixed for September, following the action of the Cosgrave government in calling for the immediate dissolution of the Free State parliament, and an opportunity for the people to declare their views at the polls.

Nominations are to be made on September 3.

Although the government won a victory in the election of its candidates in Wednesday's two by-elections to fill the seats in the Irish Dail vacated by the late Countess Markievicz, and of Kevin O'Higgins, who was assassinated recently, President Cosgrave decided that the government did not have sufficient margin of safety.

The executive council met, and it was agreed to take advantage of the present favorable situation for the government.

RECORD CROP RETURNS ARE ALMOST ASSURED

—o—

WINNIPEG—The binders are at work in early fields throughout a large part of the prairies. In many districts the presence of rust or sawfly makes it necessary to cut the wheat while still on the green side. Oats and barley are coming on rapidly and it appears likely that about seventy per cent of all grains will be ready to cut between now and September 3. The balance cannot be ready to cut until later and it is obvious that cutting operations are going to extend well past the middle of September. This makes a heavy inroad on the time normally available for threshing.

It seems likely should there be no further important damage from frost or rust that Western Canada may have better than average yields.

Manitoba

Manitoba, while having many fine stands in the more westerly areas, as a whole cannot be expected to more than even up on the losses to be experienced in the eastern parts of the province. It is our opinion that the damage by rust will prove more important in reducing yields than is commonly held. Some slight damage from frost at Swan River is expected from the frost of August 23, as there are many late fields in the areas affected.

Saskatchewan

Large as is the territory affected by frost in Saskatchewan it should be borne in mind that this area because of its much heavier stands this year may still produce more grain than last year. In the areas not affected by frost prospects are such as to make possible more than an average yield for the province. Rust is widespread and some considerable deterioration apears certain. It is the impossibility of gauging closely the loss from frost and the damage still possible to the later grain from rust and frost which makes yield estimates at best only guesses.

Alberta

Alberta has had some minor losses from frost in the Vermillion area. Should this province harvest its crop without further loss all high production records in its history will probably be exceeded. In 1923 Alberta produced its highest yield of 166,899,000 bushels of wheat with an average of 28 bushels per acre. In 1915 its average per acre was 31 bushels.

NEW TENEMENT STYLE IN LONDON

—o—

LONDON—This city is trying to beat New York and other American cities in designing high tenement buildings suitable for occupation by the working classes. It will be remembered that some three years ago Topham Forrest, the chief architect to the London County Council, visited the United States in order to investigtte the construction and control of buildings and the development of urban areas. On his return to London, he advised Colonel Levita, chairman of the Housing Committee, to build some nine-story flats on the site now occupied by slums in the neighborhood of St. Pancras, the terminus of one of Britain's most important railways.

There was a certain amount of criticism of the scheme at the time on the ground that it was the beginning of a skyscraper era for London. A model has now been put on exhibition to members of the London County Council.

Certain parts of the proposed blocks are nine stories high, but the ninth floor is to be laid out as studios. From these it is hoped to obtain a sufficiently high rental to pay for elevators. It was necessary to provide accommodation for 2557 dishoused persons, for 35 shops, a Salvation Army room, a maternity home and child welfare center and garages. From the shops and garages it is hoped that such rents will be obtained as will go far to make up the heavy cost of the flats designed for working-class flats above the fifth story on which there will be sufficient space for a cradle or baby carriage to stand where the child may sleep. Children's playgrounds are also to be laid out on the roofs of the garages.

The scheme obviously owes a great deal to New York, but the provision of studios on the ninth story is an idea taken from the city flats of Vienna, while the compromise involved in erecting in the same building flats at one place three stories high, and in the center nine stories high, is typically British.

TO SELL LAND FOR TAXES Under the Tax Recovery Act, sales of land will be held in Strathmore and Lacombe on September 17. Other sales effecting several of the smaller municipalities in the province are being arranged by the Provincial Government, but where possible they will be left over until the first returns from the present crop have been received. It is believed that these sales will greatly reduce the tax arrears in many localities.
